Perhaps not the least interesting feature which the operations in Wall street during the past week have presented has been the brisk inquiry exhibited for Southern State boads and other securities of that so the control and party in the control and other securities of that so the control and party in the control and interest of the south and other securities of that so the control and interest of the south and post-time recovery of these States from the monetary and material depression consequent upon the late war, and, what is equally gratifying in this connection, the belief of the people themselves most effected thereby in such recuperation and future prosperity. It is clearly apparent from many sources of intelligence that while radical politicians of both stripes have been engaged in wordy warfare resoccing their favorite methods of governmental reconstruction, and to suit their different purposes have at various times presented the most shocking pictures of lawiesmess, disorganization of sociaty, poverty, lack of enterprise, paralyzed energy and wretchedness, as true illustrations of the Southern people themselves, quiety growing the existence of vortical reconstruction, as stroell must be south and with the North render easy of solution, as simply logical in their development, all produces affecting their solution of sociate and with the North render easy of solution, as simply logical in their development, all produces affecting their solution of sociate and with the North render easy of solution, as simply logical in their development, all produces affecting their solution of sociates in produces affecting their solution of sociates in produces affecting their solution of the Southern people themselves of the South, with so far very dispersion of social produces and though the existence of Northern capitalists with hot the SUNDAY, Jan. 17, 1869.

Perhaps not the least interesting feature which the operations in Wall street during the past week have presented has been the brisk inquiry exhibited for Southern State bonds and other securities of that section, coming largely, too, from the people resident there, redecting, as it does, the rapid and positive recovery of these States from the monetary and material depression consequent upon the late war, and, what is equally gratifying in this connection, the belief of the people themselves most affected thereby in such recuperation and future prosperity. It is clearly apparent from many sources of intelligence that while radical politicians of both stripes have been engaged in wordy warfare respecting their favorite methods of governmental reconstruction, and to suit their different purposes have at various times presented the most shocking pictures of lawiessness, disorganization of society, poverty, lack of enterprise, paralyzed energy and wretchedness, as true illustrations of the state of affairs existing in the defunct confederation, a very large proportion of the Southern people themselves, quietly ignoring the existence even of such selfish intermeddiers, have been carnestly at work in securing a practical reconstruction, that would eventually confound these partisan philosophers, and by the short cut of a commercial and monetary association with one another and with the North render easy of solution, as simply logical in their development, all problems affecting their condition or status in results, awakened new energy in the people. There is no reason why it should not be greatly improved upon next year, and before the close of General Grant's administration we may confidently look for as large a production of the staple from free labor and modern machinery as in the most ountiful year of the old regime; indeed, ith these better appliances to the cultivation of the faith that is in any man than his willingness to tisk his money upon the correctness of his opinions; and thus when we find an active demand springs up fter a period of dulness for these securities which ave their value in the prosperity of the Southern tates, it is the best evidence that could be presented of the improved condition and prosperity of prices of the Southern bonds most largely dealt in during the past week at the close of business last night and at the close of business the Saturday week did not bear out the anticipations felt upon the publication of the bank statement the Saturday afternoon previous, at least until near the close. Yesterday, however, fully justified the expectations then indulged in of approaching ease, money being easily obtainable at seven per cent currency, and just before the close of banking hours at six. This diminution of the rate at that time on Saturday is diminution of the rate at that time on Saturday is easily accounted for by the desire to secure the two days' interest; but from the feeling in the limited all through the day and the very javorable presentment of the associated banks it is not unreasonable to expect a continuance of this ease.

Gold during the week has advanced a full one per cent, having at one time exceeded that by three-eightha, but growing weaker towards the close. The operations have been of fair extent, but the purchases scarcely sufficient of themselves to cause this increase in the premium, which, doubtless, arises mostly from a feeling of uneasiness respecting the peace of Europe, excited by the unsatisfactory progress of the Paris Conference. There are certainly no local disturbing influences of a character sufficient to thus affect the market, even the discussion of the financial canacter summent to thus anect the mar-t, even the discussion of the financial estion in Congress being now pretty generally re-rded as not likely to have any decided result this sion. The stock market for the week was on the whole in favor of the bulls, notwithstanding the uneasiness caused early in the week by the continued closeness of the money market in the face of a favorable bank statement, which had the effect of limiting transactions to a certain extent, but did not materially lower the prices. This dulness continued most of the week, except in the case of the speculative railway shares, which were dealt in almost to the exclusion of the balance of the list. The market for these was rather excited and prices fluctuated very much in consequence of various rumors. Yesterday was one of the most animated of the week, and was especially noticeable for a very decided movement in New York Central, which sold as high as 162½ just before the publication of the bank statement, notwithstanding the market was then being sharply attacked by the bears, but subsequently advancing, upon the favorable appearance of that statement, to 163½, but settling again before the plone. The course of this stock for the past few days has been wholly independent of the rest of the market. It has remained duil when the balance of the list was buoyant, and this advance yesterday was in the face of a general depression. Rock Island was another feature of the market resterday, and sold up The stock market for the week was on the whole

From the Norfolk Journal, Jan. 12.]

We have been favored by the Secretary of our Pounoicical Society with the following exhibit of the various productions of the fruit and trucking farms in the neighborhood of our city during the past year which have been sent from this port to the Northern market:—1,000,000 baskets strawberries, 50,000 barrels potates, 160,000 barrels peast, 10,000 barrels potates, 160,000 barrels peast, 10,000 barrels squashes, 2,000 barrels of the squarels squashes, 2,000 barrels beets, 40,000 bunches radishes, 100,000 cantaloupes and 50,000 witermelons. The estimated value received for the above is $1.043,200.

This calculation, it will be observed, does not include what has been received from the sale of apples, pears, plumbs, cherries, &c., which would probably amount to $25,000 more.

From what we can learn the society has taken the greatest pains to ascertain the amounts produced on our fruit and truck larus in this vicinity. They have certainly not over-estimated them or the money received for them.

The above exhibit shows what a country we have in the neighborhood of our city. Here is a comparatively new species of cultivation, which has already brought in above a million in one season. What will be produced when all the counties around Norfolk will compose one great garden and supply with early fruits and vegetables the whole of the Union north of this port? LIQUOR ADULTERATIONS AND THE YARKS OF THE IGNORANT

(From the Sunday Mercury, Jan. 17.]

Some of the unfortunate Bohemians of this city whose financial resources never enabled them to induige in a good dram of liquor have, with the efforners which marks their tribe, undertaken to descant on the quality of stimulants. These wandering heroes of impecaniosity recently visited some first class hotels and salcons for the first time, and by the courtesy of those in charge they were permitted to take "smiles" of excellent brandy, Bourbon, gin and other liquors; but they found, of course, that the quality of the article was materially different from that sold at their favorite haunts, where they could become intoxicated by three drinks at the aggregate cost of ninepence. Some of these individuals found the taste of good liquor so novel—we might say unique, so har as they were concerned—that they imagined there was poison in the article, and they related their experience in the low dram shops till it reached the ears of the leading fanatics of temperance, who at once employed them to continue their visits to reputable establishments, because they secured the largest amount of patronage. This was a godsend to the Bohemians, who obtained samples of excellent liquor, and then secured the services of a learned professor, who certified that the samples contained fusit oil, tannin and burned sugar—a fact well-known throughout the world. Almost every schoolboy is aware that fusil oil is one of the ciamentary ingredients of whiskey, being derived from the substance of which it is composed, and that tannin is found in all new liquor. Neither of these are injurious when used in due proportion in distilled spirits; but whiskey without fusil oil is positively poisonous. The beneficial effect of whiskey from which fusil oil is not extracted is shown by the fact that it is used in cases of consumption, and often results in the recovery of the patient. The Bonemians, and their new allies, the temperance men, have thus discovered an extensive marc's nest. If we required any forther proo prehensible. New York imports more good liquor and sells and uses more excellent whiskey than nearly any city in the world; and no one will believe that our wealthy citizens, who are lavish in their expenditures on necessities and inxuries, would tolerate poor or poisonone brandy, gin or Bourbon. The stuff about fusil oil can be easily realized when it is known that corn bread, which is admittedly wholesome, contains proportionately more of it than any whiskey or other distilled spirits. Lot, then, no citizen who has a regard for his life, or his stomach, purchast so-called whiskey without the wholesome materials which these ignorant Bohemians have pronounced poisonous in order to ald the cause of the temperance fanatics in their present state of desperation.

CHASE APTER BURGLARS-AN ARREST.-About two o'clock yesterday morning Patrolman John McDevitt, of the Forty-first precinct, noticed two men coming of the Forty-first precinct, noticed two men coming down Garden street having in their arms several rolls of cloth. They spied the officer before he could get near enough to stop them and immediately took to their heels and made off in the direction of Atiantic street. The officer gave the alarm, to which officer Powers responded and both gave chase, the latter intercepting a man, who it is supposed was one of the suspicious couple, at the corner of Hicks and Atiantic streets. In the flight eight pieces of cloth were dropped by the reliows, which were recovered by the police. On being taken to the station house in Butter street the prisoner, who bears a bad reputation among the police, gave his name as Michael Laily. He is twenty-two years of age and a laborer by occupation. The prisoner was locked up for examination before Justice Delmar on a charge of suspicion of burstary.
